Halloween Activity Packet for Elementary

Teacher Introduction

They did the mash... They did the monster mash! This activity booklet includes 5 poems about different Halloween monsters with 3 related activities.

Teacher Use: Teachers will have students pick from

VAMPIRE, WEREWOLF, Witch, ZOMBIE, or Mummy
(or assign each student a monster).

Teachers will print and prepare as many activity booklets as needed for a class set for each student to have a monster, and gather materials. Students can work independently or in groups (if they pick the same monster) at the teacher's discretion.

Student Use: Students will complete the activities in this packet for the monster they choose.

Materials Needed:

- Class set of "Monster Mash ELA Packet K-5"
- Writing materials
- Coloring materials
- Glue
- Decorating materials such as pom-poms, beads, string, etc

Vampires

VAMPIRES POEM

Directions: Read the poem and highlight the words that rhyme. Underline the rhyming sounds!

On Halloween night, when the moon is bright,
And the creatures of darkness take flight,
You might hear a rustle and a hiss,
And catch a glimpse of a vampire's kiss.

With sharp, pointed teeth and a thirst for blood,
These undead beings roam the neighborhood,
Seeking out those who dare to venture,
Into the night, with hearts full of adventure.

But don't be afraid, my little friend,
For these vampires just pretend,
To be scary and fierce and bold,
When in reality, they're gentle and old.

With capes and fangs and a mischievous grin,
These vampires are sure to win,
The hearts of all who come their way,
On this spooky and frightful holiday.

WEREWOLVES POEM

Directions: Read the poem and highlight the words that rhyme. Underline the rhyming sounds!

On Halloween night, when the full moon glows,
And the wind through the trees eerily blows,
You might hear a howl and a snarl,
And catch a glimpse of a werewolf's growl.

With fur that's thick and eyes aglow,
These beasts are ready to put on a show,
Of growling and snarling and teeth so sharp,
That you might just want to run and dart.

But don't be afraid, my little friends,
For werewolves are just pretend,
With tails that wag and a playful bark,
These werewolves are sure to leave their mark,
On the hearts of all who come their way,
On this spooky and frightful holiday.

Witches

Witches poem

Directions: Read the poem and highlight the words that rhyme. Underline the rhyming sounds!

On the night of Halloween,
when the moon is bright,
And the stars twinkle in the dark of night,
Beware the witches who take to the sky,
With their broomsticks and hats, oh my!

Their cackles and laughs fill the air,
As they fly through the clouds without a care,
With potions and spells at their command,
They'll put a spell on you if they can.
But don't be afraid, my little friends,
For witches are just pretend.

With pointed hats and robes so black,
These witches are sure to leave their track,
On the minds of all who come their way,
On this spooky and frightful holiday.

So say hello and give them a smile,
And stay awhile to chat awhile,
For you never know what you might learn,
From a witch's tales of magic and concern.

Witches are often depicted as magical women who wear pointy hat and fly on broomstick? They r said 2 cast spells and brew potions in their cauldrons. However, witches are not reale and only exist in stories and legends. It is important to remember that real peoples should never be judged or accused of being a witch just because they are different or have different beliefs. Hallwoenen can be a fun time to dress pu as a witch, but it is important to remember that it is all pretend and make-believe!

Zombies

ZOMBIES POEM

Directions: Read the poem and highlight the words that rhyme. Underline the rhyming sounds!

When the moon rises and the night is dark,
And the zombies come out for a walk in the park,
Beware their moans and groans so loud,
And their shuffling feet that make no sound.

With arms outstretched and eyes aglow,
These zombies will put on a spooky show,

Their pale skin and tattered clothes,
Are just costumes from head to toes,
To scare and entertain on this night,
And make everyone's Halloween just right.

So don't be afraid of the walking dead,
As they roam around with no real threat,
Just say hello and maybe even dance,
For these zombies just want a chance,

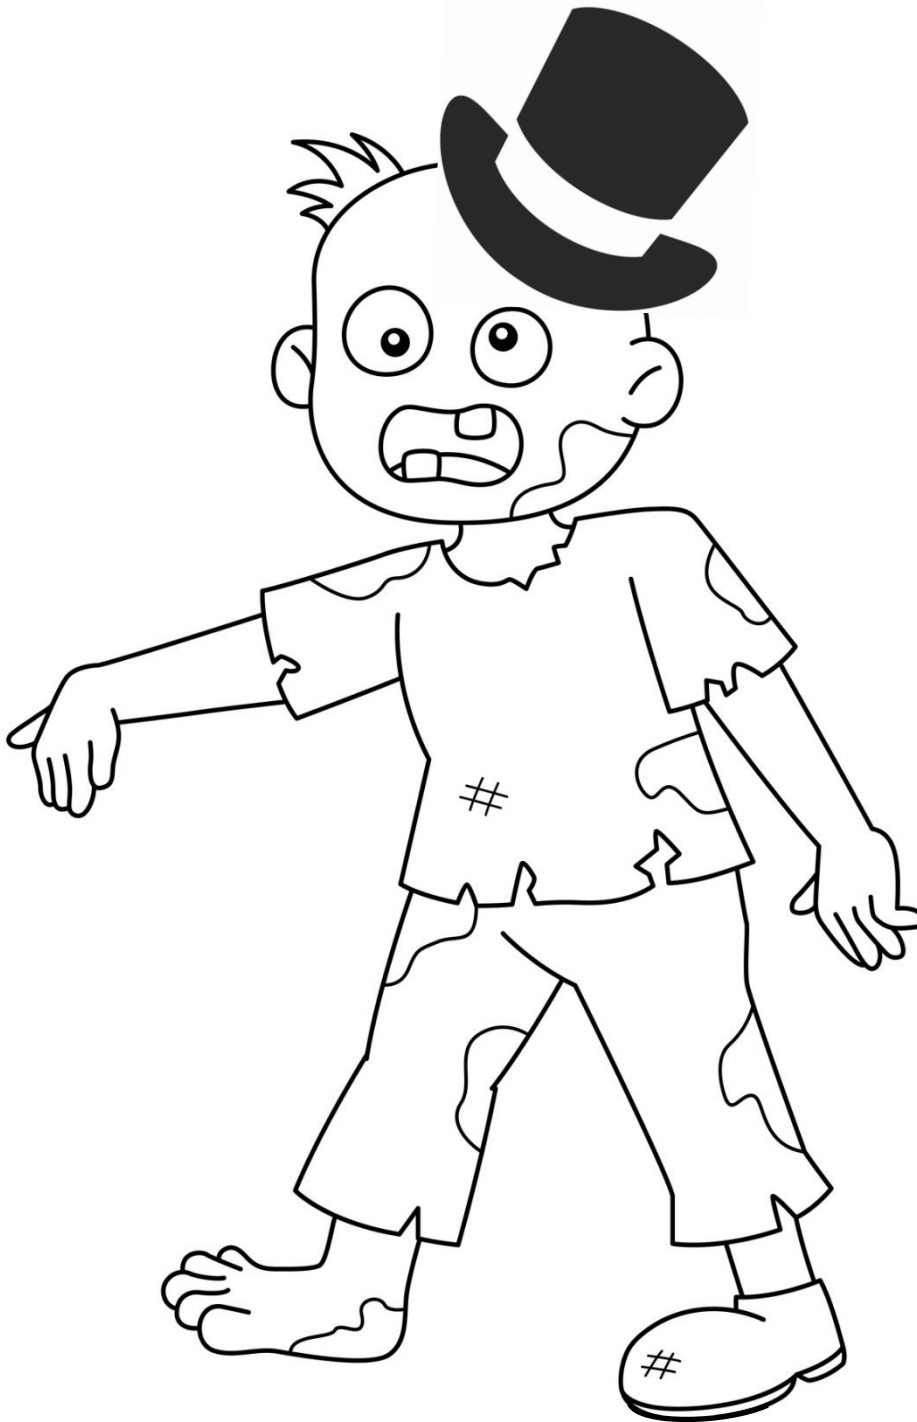

To have some fun and join the fray,
On this spooktacular Halloween day,
So embrace the zombies with open arms,
And enjoy their silly and harmless charms.

Mummies

Mummies Poem

Directions: Read the poem and highlight the words that rhyme. Underline the rhyming sounds!

Wrapped up tight in bandages so white,
Mummies come out on Halloween night,
Their ancient tombs they have left behind,
To join in the spooky fun you'll find.

With eyes that gleam and hands so cold,
These mummies may give you a fright to behold,
But fear not, dear friends, they mean no harm,
Just want to be a part of the Halloween charm.

Their wrappings and linen are centuries old,
And their stories are waiting to be told,
Of pharaohs and pyramids and long lost lands,
Mummies have a history that's truly grand.

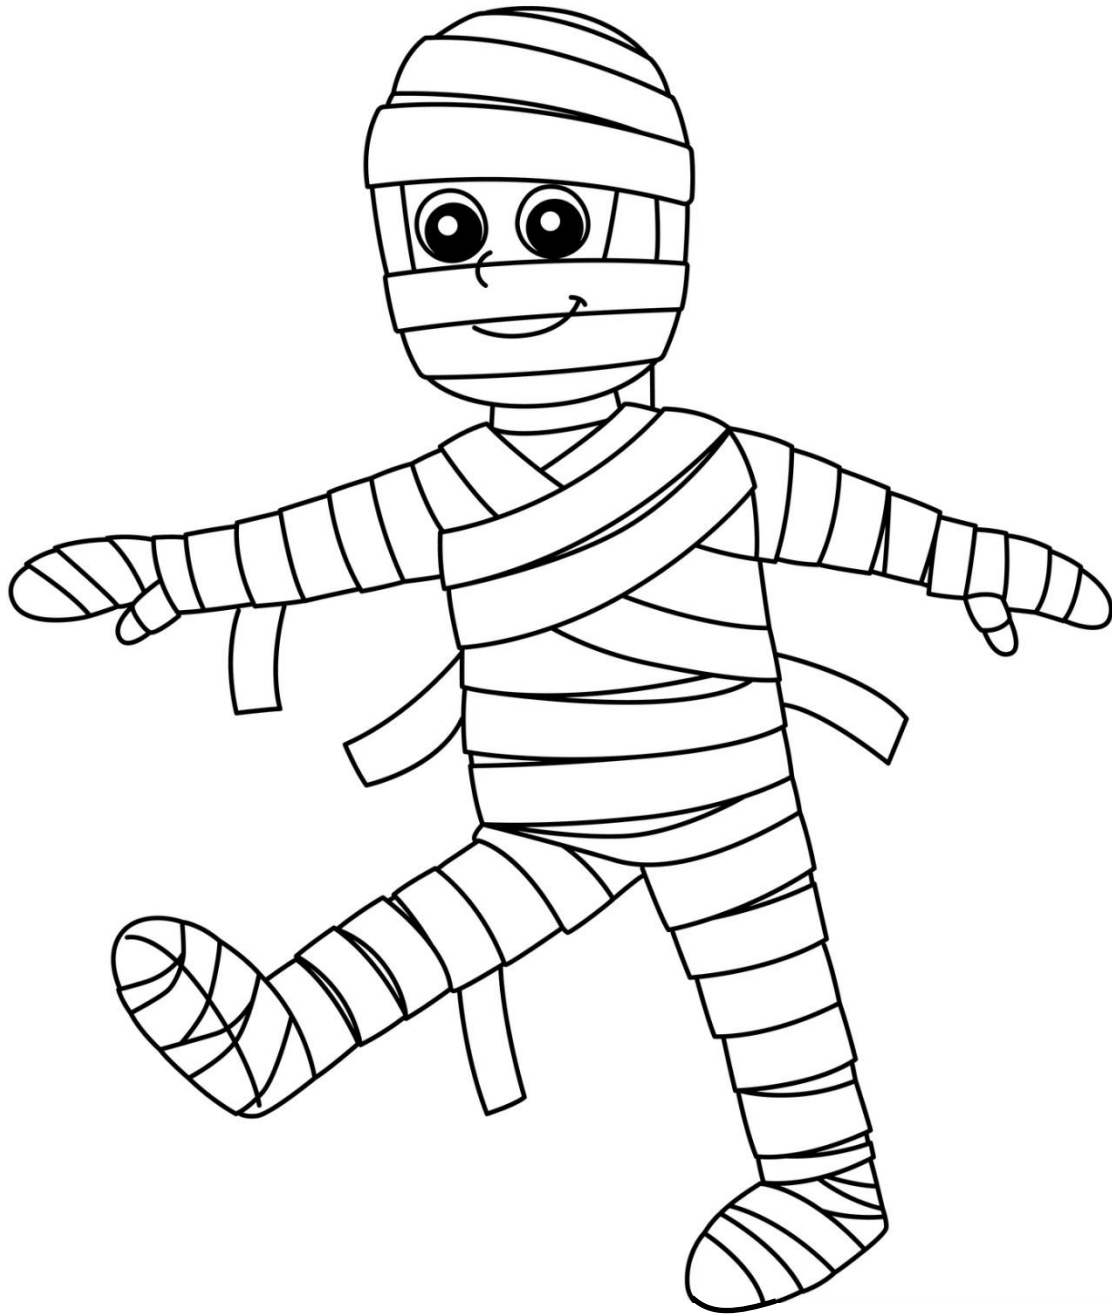

So don't be scared of these bandaged friends,
For they'll only be around until the night ends,
And when the sun rises and the night is through,
The mummies will return to their tombs anew.
